

Anti-Womanhood Hatemongering

Anthony Shell      July 2020

CONTENTS

| Subject       | Page N° |
|----------------------|----------------|
| Contents [this page] | 1              |
| Authorization        | 2              |
| Investigative Report | 3              |
| End                  | 20             |

[Note: Original sources are listed as footnotes at the bottom of each page. Endnotes are not used. URL references are not hyper-linked in this report. Photos and image scans (including that of documents, et cetera) are included solely in the context of (and as appropriate to) the research content of this report, for illustrative and substantiation purposes only.]

Authorization

It was after graduation from university, in 1971, that I began work as an engineer-mathematician in the research and development department of a company within the high-technology sector of UK industry.

In 1975, following full vetting, I was given UK Top Secret (Artificer) security clearance

Over the next 30 years I worked for 6 leading UK companies, on 14 different major engineering projects. That work subsequently included my attendance, as a delegate, at conferences on Net-Centric Warfare, and of being trained in advanced Distributed Data Fusion (DDF) techniques

Toward the latter part of that work I presented details of my research at conferences in England (Brighton), Germany (Munich) and Italy (near Lucca, Tuscany). In addition, I had 3 peer-reviewed research papers published by a major science-engineering organization (INCOSE, through Wiley, New York) and a book chapter was accepted for a publication on complex optimization theory (Springer-Verlag, London, 2002).

In 2003 I took early retirement, and shortly afterward began independent research into the ideologies, formation, and functioning of complex social and political groups and organizations. My original, previous work in the modeling of behaviour mode dynamics of complex systems – and of the conditions for transitions between behaviour modes, in particular – was especially useful, in that regard.

The results of that work were both self-published, and published in a number of independent outlets (newspaper, periodicals). Correspondence and comment, dealing with matters concerning the above subjects, were submitted by myself, and published by national newspapers and magazines (including The Times, The Financial Times, The Guardian, New Scientist, and The Economist).

That research quickly evolved into the investigations of political extremism – and, in particular, the relationship between extremist political ideology and possible malfeasance within UK State agencies (i.e. of the complicity within the UK State in the covert manipulation of extreme social-cultural change).

This work has therefore included the development and use of techniques specifically for analyzing and understanding complex socio-political phenomena – where such phenomena is driven by the concealed malfeasance of ideological, dictatorial subgroups (and, especially, sub-groups embedded within the State apparatus). This has special importance where such malfeasance is manifest as a group psychopathy.

Hence, reports such as this document.

Anthony Shell      July 2020

Investigative Report

This report examines the way in which organizations, endorsed and promoted by the UK State, express and foment extreme vitriol against (in particular) targeted young women who hold and promulgate conservative, traditionalist views in regard to notions of womanhood (and, indeed, also of manhood).

The report concerns the particular activities of the organization Hope Not Hate – in regard to the manner in which it uses its research and publishing arm to attack such vulnerable, young women.

The attacks (acerbic comment, innuendo, and proxy stalking) are directed against women who publically refuse to be subservient to the ‘progressive’ identity-politics ideology that is vigorously promoted by Hope Not Hate. Particularly targeted are the young women who dare to ‘speak their mind’ in regard to that ‘progressive’ dogma, who are also perceived to be vulnerable to such obnoxious intimidation tactics.

The clear intent, I am in no doubt, is to ruin those women’s lives – to destroy their livelihood (or business enterprise, if they have one), to isolate them from family and friends, and to foment extreme vituperate hatred toward them from individuals and political groups. Such is the nature and content of those Hope Not Hate ad hominem attacks that those women have genuinely expressed fears that they, or family members, may be subject to physical violence from hate-filled persons or organized political gangs.

The starting point of this particular enquiry is that of the attack upon Dr. Liz MILLER by the head of Hope Not Hate, Nick LOWLES, in March 2012.<sup>1</sup> Apart from this being one example (one of many) of the predilections of Hope Not Hate for launching such vituperative attacks upon vulnerable (and seemingly defenceless) women, it is of particular interest for a number of reasons – as outlined below.

Dr. Liz MILLER was, at the time of that attack, widely known for her extraordinarily difficult journey through life – of her struggling to develop her career in neurosurgery and psycho-therapy, whilst suffering from the life-long condition of acute, clinical depression. Indeed, by the time of that Hope Not Hate attack, she had already suffered three nervous breakdowns.<sup>2</sup> I am sure Hope Not Hate must have known this.

It is therefore not at all difficult to imagine how Dr. MILLER will have felt, on seeing that Hope Not Hate article. What was Hope Not Hate ‘hoping’ to achieve?

More recently there is to be found the report by the (female) members of the organization Females Fed Up With Feminism, of their coming under similar attacks.<sup>3</sup> The manner in which those attacks were made is illustrated in the attached document scans. The author of those disgraceful attacks is listed as a ‘researcher’ and ‘writer’ for Hope Not Hate, named as David LAWRENCE.

---

<sup>1</sup> The Hope Not Hate website Blog, downloaded from archive.org [Google]

<sup>2</sup> ‘Doctor’s Orders’, Mary O’Hara, The Guardian, 11th June 2008

<sup>3</sup> ‘Being Targeted by Hope Not Hate’, Females Fed Up With Feminism, online blog account, 10th June 2017.

Hope Not Hate doesn't actually provide biographical details for David LAWRENCE. And nor do any of the publications that reproduce his Hope Not Hate 'journalistic opinion pieces' (such as The Guardian, The New Statesman, Routledge Publishing, et al).

Notably, the first appearance of David LAWRENCE, of Hope Not Hate, was in the form of an article just three days after the Manchester Arena bombing (of the 22nd May 2017). He therefore immediately started posting regular articles for Hope Not Hate, from the 25th May, onwards. I assume this is no coincidence.

The Islamist bomber (Salman ABEDI) deliberately chose the Ariana Grande concert, knowing that he would be killing many young women and girls – 15 of the 22 people killed did, indeed, fall within that category. It would seem to me that Hope Not Hate's intention was therefore to use David LAWRENCE 'research' to assist in demonizing anyone who dared express anger as a result of that horrifically evil slaughter – and in such a way that they could be portrayed as 'Islamophobic' white racists.

I note that normally reputable source, MUCKRACK, identifies David LAWRENCE (of Hope Not Hate) as being an elderly journalist, based in the USA. I believe this to be wrong.

Unfortunately, upon investigation, it gets even worse.

It appears that David LAWRENCE is a pseudonym, selected by Hope Not Hate for possibly malevolent purpose – to solicit expressions of anger (including, of extreme anti-Semitism) against a person of Jewish heritage living in the USA, who has been very outspoken in his criticisms of the following: radical feminism; the pro-choice movement (pro-abortion); appeasement to Islamic expansionism and mass Muslim immigration (into the USA); and of 'progressive' leftist political ideology in general. He has produced articles supportive of the conservative US Tea Party.

Therefore, this is something that most definitely requires some follow-up investigatory work.

It is in the context of the 'Females Fed Up With Feminism' movement that Elisabeth HOBSON's name appears in the Hope Not Hate Publication 'State of Hate 2020 – Far Right Terror Goes Global'.

Therefore a campaign that criticizes the obvious double-standards, duplicity and hatemongering (often racist) that exists within the radical feminist movement, and that seeks to highlight the problems affecting specifically men and boys (such as suicide, infant circumcision, domestic abuse/violence, unjust treatment in courts), is portrayed as being tantamount to support for 'terrorism'. This is not merely odious and perverse, but it is highly dangerous for any of the women stigmatized in that way.

I firmly believe the intention is to make such non-conformist women shut-up, by making them fear for their (or their families') safety. And as such, it is seen to be a cowardly, misogynist form of political thuggery.

On the 21st November 2018 a senior member of the organization Hope Not Hate, writing under the name 'Duncan CAHILL', produced (again, IMHO) one of the nastiest, most vituperative pieces of 'journalism' I believe I've ever seen. In that article 'Duncan CAHILL' attacked a young (and obviously very vulnerable) Manchester-based businesswoman, by the name of Rachel SELLERS.

Personally, I am in no doubt that the intention was to utterly ruin her life – to destroy her livelihood (and any future prospects) and to permanently estrange her from friends and family. Her grave offence, it seems, was to express her support for the ‘Justice For Our Boys’ campaign. This was a grass-roots effort to expose the (possibly willful) failure of the Metropolitan Police Service, and the Crown Prosecution Service, to properly investigate and prosecute those responsible the killing of three young boys, by a motorist, on the 26th January 2018 – and to expose the probable (racist) reasons for the State’s negligence (and failure of duty, in law), in that particular case.

As with David LAWRENCE, Hope Not Hate has not provided any details of ‘Duncan CAHILL’ – other than that he is a researcher, writer, and (perhaps most significantly) a ‘Hope Not Hate Organizer’. No biographical details are given and, despite my best efforts, I cannot find details of any journalist, of that name, that matches the work he is producing (or that he has produced in the past).

This is quite inexplicable. Clearly this is something that Hope Not Hate wish to remain hidden. They have no such problem with most (albeit, not all) of their other researchers/writers. Why should that be?

Of particular note, also, has been the vituperative attacks by Hope Not Hate against Kim KALKOWSKI – a young woman who had already been forced to flee her London home, and her business, by extremist political gang members, and who was attempting to start her life anew by managing a cake-shop and café in the run-down seaside town of Margate.

An examination of the events preceding Hope Not Hate’s use of a specific, targeted and nasty intimidation of that young woman, provides an especially useful insight into the apparent psychopathy that underpins such disgusting and cowardly forms of behaviour.

On the night of the 29th/30th November 2012 a window of the Cake ‘N’ Treats (franchise) shop in Dortmund in Germany, under the management of Kim KALKOWSKI, was broken as a result of an unsuccessful attempt at a Molotov Cocktail bomb attack (to burn the shop down, despite the risk of killing anyone in, and/or living above, that shop). That attack was organized and coordinated through members of the extreme-left group LinkSunten – a group that was eventually banned (as a violent, extremist group) by the German Government in 2017.

The motivation for that attack, according to that German ‘anti-fascist action’ movement, was the belief that Kim KALKOWSKI was a neo-Nazi – despite their not knowing anything that she had said, or that she had done, to support that view.<sup>4</sup>

Therefore it appears it was because of that attack (and the likelihood of future attacks) that Kim KALKOWSKI moved to London in circa August 2013, to run another Cake ‘N’ Treats franchise shop in the borough of Camden. It is noted that the German ‘anti-fascists’ took note of that development – and would presumably have passed that information on to their extremist, political counterparts in London.

---

<sup>4</sup> Source: ‘Kein Weihnachtsfest für Kim Kalkowski’ (No Chrismass for Kim Kalkowski) Linksunten Archiv, Commentary 416, from 28th November 2012, and onwards.

On the 24th July 2014 there was this comment, from the London-based organization LibCom: “Cupcake fascism is a term made up by smug middle-class liberals to define what they see as contemporary fascism emerging from twee things and post-imperial British nationalism, essentially a longing for a return to a past which never existed. It reached its apex with the hashtagged, superficial erasure of such social problems by cunts with brooms that was #riotcleanup. Nobody using the term seemed to think there really was a link between cupcakes and actual fascism”.<sup>5</sup> Obviously that link needed to be made.

The last two sentences are especially noteworthy.

Two years earlier, in the summer of 2011, riots had erupted across large areas of London. In the aftermath, local residents organized themselves, under the self-proclaimed ‘blitz spirit’, to clean up the streets and to repair much of the damage. It was noted that whilst (sadly) most of the rioters were from the BAME communities, most of the ‘riot clean up’ volunteers were from the ‘white’ community.

This was highly resented by the radical left – given that they obviously would have preferred the opposite to be the case (white working class rioters, and BME residents coming together to confront the rioters and to rebuild the community).

Therefore, what happened next was of no surprise, whatsoever.

On the 19th August 2014 a journalist for Vice Magazine, James POULTER, tweeted “I investigated Camden’s neo-Nazi linked vegan cake shop for @VICEUK”. He included the seemingly racist byline (referring to Kim KALKOWSKI) of “White flour in Camden” that, like the above LibCom piece, appears to be no more than a regurgitation of the same Linksunten Archiv garbage produced some 20 months previously – in other words, this appears to have been the basis of his ‘investigation’.<sup>6 7</sup>

At 11:00am on the morning of the 11th September 2014 two cyclists drew up outside of Cakes ‘N’ Treats and shouted abusive insults of “fascist scum” and “Nazi scum” at the staff and customers inside the shop. One of the cyclists threw a full beer bottle into the crowded shop through the open doorway.

Obviously, with thoughts of the previous Molotov Cocktail attack in mind (Dortmund two years previously), a friend of Kim KALKOWSKI dashed out of the shop, equipped with an extendible self-defence baton, and attempted to fight off that attack. However, he was eventually forced to retreat back into the shop. Notably, the CCTV video clearly shows this to be the sequence of events.

When Metropolitan Police officers turned up, they arrested Kim KALKOWSKI and her male friend (the one who had attempted to fight off the attackers). It appears the police were acting on prior instruction.

---

<sup>5</sup> ‘Anti-fascists Call For Boycott of Neo-Nazi Vegan Cake Shop’, source: <http://libcom.org/news/anti-fascists-boycott-neo-nazi-vegan-cake-shop-24072014>

<sup>6</sup> Twitter account: James Poulter, @jdpoulter, 07:14 AM – Aug 19, 2014

<sup>7</sup> As a rather pathetic pun on her race, and on her profession.

The mainstream media (The Mirror, in particular) attempted to spin the story – that the two cyclists were just innocent individuals who had been randomly attacked, for no reason whatsoever, by a maniac wielding “a huge knife”.<sup>8</sup>

However, to give ITV News their due, that particular media outlet did later release statements to the effect that “but it appears that not all is what it seems” – that the two cyclists were the initiators of the violence, and that local residents and shop keepers told ITV News that allegations that Kim KALKOWSKI (or her friend) were fascists or Nazis was “ridiculous”.

Notably, The Mirror subsequently removed the CCTV video of the incident from their website, and obscured the still images taken from that video, such that the two assailants could not be identified.

Therefore it was not out of choice that Kim KALKOWSKI left her home and her business in the heart of London, and moved to the rather down-at-heel town of Margate. She was forced to flee out of fear for her own and her customers’ safety – because of the previous abuse, threats of violence, and actual physical damage to her property. Although she had done nothing wrong, she was being hounded out of London.

On the 13th December 2016 Hope Not Hate published an article by Duncan CAHILL under the title ‘Margate’s Nazi Cupcakes – Cupcakes from Camden to Margate With Love’.<sup>9</sup> The article included a comment referring to: “... windows being smashed in the dead of night ... “. Part of Hope Not Hate’s ‘research’ appears to have included the use of material obtained by a black-clad young man, employed to creep about in front of Kim KALKOWSKI’s shop, taking clandestine pictures. Why?

I assume that ‘Nazi Cupcakes’ title, and the choice of the particular picture of Kim KALKOWSKI (standing proudly outside her shop, holding a broom), was as a nod from Hope Not Hate to the (London based) LibCom’s reference to “cunts with brooms”.

Therefore Hope Not Hate was acting on information originally fabricated by the (now banned) German-based, hard-left, and violently terrorist group Linksunten.

It is because of the above, that I decided to do some of my own research, to establish whether or not any of the above groups had legitimate reasons to have concerns regarding Kim KALKOWSKI. As far as I can see, they didn’t. The worse that could be said is that she had not always been that careful in her choice of friends or associates – which is probably true for almost every young adult, attempting to establish their social life. It is not a crime – it is a part of the learning process of growing up. And we all make mistakes.

She certainly has some strong beliefs – most notably in regard to her veganism (which is usually associated with left-wing sentiments and political ‘youth-activism’). She has posed for a picture, with a group of young men and women at a holidays/travel gathering, wearing a white-on-black Animal Liberation Front (ALF) t-shirt. Which is hardly a crime – or even especially objectionable, to any sensible person.

---

<sup>8</sup> ‘Terrifying Video Shows Moment Man Attacks Cyclist With Huge Knife In Busy London Street’, by Hannah Hope and Anthony Bond, The Mirror, 11th September 2014.

<sup>9</sup> Source: <https://www.hopenothate.org.uk/2016/12/13/margates-nazi-cupcakes/>

I am certain there'd be no objections whatsoever (from either the UK STATE, or far-left political movement – especially self-styled 'anti-fascists') to any young woman wearing an Extinction Rebellion t-shirt.

I suspect the hatred being directed toward KALKOWSKI is actually due to her being a young woman with an entrepreneurial ability – of refusing to adopt the 'victim' mantel so beloved by the 'progressive' and the radical feminist left. When this is combined with her efforts to build up a business in a city (London) blighted by the consequences of decades long, race baiting political agitation, then it becomes very clear why she has been perceived as a 'threat'. She had to be made afraid. She had to be forced to flee the UK.

So, what should be made of all this?

One of the most noticeable traits of Hope Not Hate is an almost fetishized interest in presenting photographs of young women within the same context as violent (and often psychopathically deranged) young men. And this is so, even where there is no connection between the two, whatsoever.

The only reason I can see for this is that Hope Not Hate takes extreme exception to such women because they happen to hold (and express support for) conservative, traditionalist views. And Hope Not Hate does so, knowing full well the possible consequences of its actions (of creating such false connections).

People subjected to fabricated opprobrium by such State-endorsed 'activism' have been made fearful for the safety of themselves and of family members, they have feared (and have often incurred) the loss of their livelihood, and they have been permanently isolated from friends and associates. And, most contrariwise, they have been publically (and maliciously) placed into the category of being 'terrorists'.

In regard to attacks upon conservative-minded women, it is especially important to recognize the ideology of radical feminism in regard to the matters revealed within this section of the report.

Much of the behaviour, described within this report, is against young women who oppose radical (so called 'third wave') feminism. An utterly bizarre suggestion is made, claiming that those who oppose the totalitarian demands of radical feminism provide " a gateway to the far right".<sup>10</sup>

Hope Not Hate uses its publication to perversely imprint upon the minds of its gullible readers that those women (who oppose radical feminism) are enabling fascism.

Nick LOWLES MBE of Hope Not Hate has been included as a member of the 'Expert (Advisory) Group' of the Government's Commission for Countering Extremism (the CCE, under the leadership of Sara KAHN MA). Other members of the 'Expert Group' included Sir Mark ROWLEY KGB QPM, together with twelve other, highly regarded (and very politically influential) persons.<sup>11</sup>

So, on the basis of the members serving together on that shared, advisory/advocacy platform – and using the same operating methods employed by Hope Not Hate – should we therefore assume (and should we

---

<sup>10</sup> 'UK's online anti-feminist movement is providing [a] route into far-right, ant-extremist charity warns | JOE.co.uk', Hope Not Hate, Twitter 20th February 2019

<sup>11</sup> CCE 'Advisory Group' membership, as per update of the 6th July 2020

widely propagate that assumption) that Nick LOWLES MBE, Sir Mark ROWLEY KGB QM, or (even) Sara KHAN, do (and have) supported the buggery of young boys (and young girls) by adult men? <sup>12</sup>

Obviously, not only should we never, ever, do anything so disgusting – but even considering the possibly of fabricating and promulgating such hatemongering inferences (or supporting, or allowing others to do so) should be totally repugnant to any moral person or organization.

However, this is precisely the very toxic ‘guilt by association / guilt by false attribution’ tactic routinely employed by Hope Not Hate – as (for example) described within this report. In these cases, the inferred associations are specifically to the political ideologies of the far right, fascism, racism, and neo-Nazism.

As we have seen very recently, such tactics are increasingly terrorizing the intended, conservatively-minded ‘targets’ – including, as described within this report, young women, their children, and their partners. It instills a real fear in such ‘targets’ that, based on contemporary events, they (or family members) may become the victims of extreme abuse, serious physical assault, and (even) murder. <sup>13</sup>

It was in early 2017 that Nick LOWLES, as the founder and head of Hope Not Hate, was awarded the Member of The British Empire (MBE) medal by the UK State for his work in “combatting extremism”.

END of section (10 images/document scans follow)

---

<sup>12</sup> This (of course) refers to the commissioned work of one of the CCE advisory members appearing, in the late 1980s, within the pages of an especially notorious pro-paedophile publication: ‘The Betrayal of Youth – Radical Perspectives on Childhood Sexuality, Intergenerational Sexuality, and The Social Oppression of Children and Young People’ (BOY), Edited by Warren Middleton, CL Publications. Ref. Chapter, pages 117 to 119, ‘Questioning Ages of Majority, and Ages of Consent’, by Peter Tatchell.

<sup>13</sup> As demonstrated by the contemporary (circa 2020) activities of groups such as AntiFa, Black Lives Matter, BAMN, et al, within the United States of America.

Figure 1

Nick Lowles' blog
 Nick Lowles is HOPE not hate co-ordinator

Doctor Who?
 posted by: Nick Lowles | on: Tuesday, 6 March 2012, 18:14

Dr Liz Miller was voted Mind Champion of the Year in 2008. What's her connection to the BNP?

Find out by reading the new HOPE not hate magazine
<https://www.hopenothate.org.uk/subscribe/>

Posted: 6 Mar 2012 | There are 0 comments | make a comment/view comments

Understanding far right supporters
 posted by: Nick Lowles | on: Tuesday, 6 March 2012, 13:38

Blog archive
 Blog home
 2012 : March
 : February
 : January
 2011
 2010
 2009
 2008

HOPE not hate latest video

Doctor's orders

Liz Miller was a successful surgeon when depression hit. Now the Mind Champion of the Year wants the medical profession to take mental health seriously. By Mary O'Hara

The Guardian Newspaper

Liz Miller: "In medicine we live on this myth that illness is for other people." Photograph: Anna Gordon

Mary O'Hara

Wed 11 Jun 2008 00.01 BST

Hope Not Hate 'Hit Job' [1]

Figure 2

REVEALED: TORY POLITICIAN LINKS TO EXTREME RIGHT

02/06/2017 - David Lawrence (<https://www.hopenothate.org.uk/authors/david-lawrence/>)

HOPE not hate can reveal that Tory politician Philip Davies, currently seeking re-election in Shipley, has been associating with anti-feminist pressure group 'Ladies

The Liberty Belles

In light of such antics it should not surprise that Davies has attracted some unsavoury elements to his cause.

Hobson also spoke on the same subject at The Extremists Club in October 2016, a small monthly discussion group based in Soho, founded by Turner and prominent right-wing occultist David Parry. Raymond was seen entering an Extremists Club meeting in April, which was addressed by veteran anti-feminist and Nazi-apologist Claire Khaw (https://www.vice.com/en\_uk/article/which-type-of-mangina-are-you), who was due to speak on the importance of establishing a one-party theocracy in the UK to eradicate the “matriarchy”.

Hobson also appeared on THA Talks, a podcast indulging in “topics generally considered marginal, strange, controversial, or esoteric and occult” run by Parry and Paul Obertelli. Other guests on THA include Turner, leading Holocaust denier Nicholas Kollerstrom and alt-right organiser and former BNP activist Matt Tait.

L4PD did not respond to a request for comment on Hobson’s activities.

Hope Not Hate ‘Hit Job’ [2] – the yellow name tags is a Hope Not Hate addition

Figure 3

state-of-hate-2020-final

THE MANOSPHERE

BY SIMON MURDOCH

IT HAS LONG been the case that far-right movements have held sexist, misogynist and anti-feminist views. Yet, in a pronounced way, for elements of the contemporary far right these ideas are not merely a result of their wider political outlook, but rather the central pillar of their ideology (in some cases alongside disavowals of other bigotries).

One influence on the contemporary far right's understanding of gender politics is the "manosphere": a loose collection of websites, forums, blogs and vlogs concerned with men's issues and masculinity, oriented around an opposition to feminism and, within parts, the embrace of extreme misogyny.

The prevailing interpretation within the manosphere is that feminism is about promoting misandry (contempt or prejudice of men), rather than gender equality. This perception is central to understanding the manosphere, for whilst many of its interests and ideas are inherently sexist, anti-feminist and misogynistic.

rejection of feminism and a broader conspiratorial outlook continues to find resonance with the wider contemporary far right.

Whilst sexism and misogyny remain endemic issues in the UK, organised political movements that are primarily focused on these ideas remain small and at the political fringes. Fringe party Justice for Men and Boys (J4MB) are the most active organised element of the British manosphere. Active mainly in London and led by former Conservative Party consultant Mike Buchanan, J4MB is electorally marginal and in practice functions as a pressure group whose main activities are to coordinate anti-feminist activity in the UK and in collaboration with fellow activists abroad.

Their activities this year remained largely online, consisting of blogs on their site. Offline, the group also took part in the annual International Conference on Men's Issues (ICMI), the key international meeting of anti-feminist activists. The 2019 ICMI was held in Chicago and was organised by the Honey Badger Brigade, a Canadian anti-feminist organisation. Conservative MP Philip Davies, who has previously spoken at ICMI, spoke there again in 2019, as did British far-right vlogger Carl Benjamin (AKA Sargon of Akkad). Elisabeth Hobson from J4MB also took part in the Battle of Ideas, the annual debating festival put on by Brexit Party MEP Claire Fox's Academy of Ideas organisation, in November, and Hobson co-hosted the Messages4Men conference in London in the same month alongside anti-feminist activist Natoya Raymond.

■ Pick-Up Artists (PUA): As the Southern Poverty Law Centre describes, PUAs focus "on teaching men how to manipulate women into sex, all the while constantly disparaging women and the idea of consent". As Marwick and Lewis note, the PUA community distorts dating advice so that it dehumanizes women and grants all sexual agency to men. The PUA community snowballed online, receiving mainstream attention in the 2000s.

■ Involuntary Celibates (incels): Incels are men who believe their lack of sexual and romantic success is involuntary and is the fault of feminism and women. Originating in the late 1990s in a support group for men and women "struggling to form loving relationships", from the mid-2000s a misogynistic strand grew (partly due to an influx of men disillusioned with PUAs). Edinburgh University's Tim Squirrel notes this resulted in less emphasis on support and an increasing pressure to take the 'blackpill': a fatalistic notion that "a man's life chances are fundamentally determined by his attractiveness". Many conclude their options are "living in misery or violent action".

of 140

STATE OF HATE 2020
FAR RIGHT TERROR GOES GLOBAL

1

Hope Not Hate 'Hit Job' [2] – conflating 'Justice For Men and Boys' with terrorism.

Figure 4

UKIP UNVEILS ANTI-MUSLIM MANIFESTO

25/05/2017 - David Lawrence (<https://www.hopenothate.org.uk/authors/david-lawrence/>)

UKIP has launched its manifesto today, putting tolerance, multiculturalism and Islam firmly in its sights.

Despite all major parties postponing national campaigning until tomorrow, UKIP chose to launch its manifesto ahead of the minute's silence at 11am this morning.

And while the country is still reeling from the abhorrent terrorist attack that

The New 'Reporter' and The New Narrative, 3 Days After The Manchester Bombing.

Figure 5

(L4PD), which has connections to extreme right wing networks. L4PD is linked to the racial nationalist London Forum, which in February held a secret meeting addressed by Holocaust denier David Irving.

3 YEARS AGO f in t Open in Who Shared Wrong byline? ▼

UKIP racism roundup – HOPE not hate

By David Lawrence

hopenothate.org.uk — HOPE not hate has recently offered to help UKIP vet its Parliamentary candidates, bringing a few troublesome representatives to its attention in a recent blog. UKIP has (reluctantly) taken our advice, withdrawing support for North Wiltshire candidate Paddy Singh after we exposed a series of extremely racist and antisemitic comments on his social media accounts.

3 YEARS AGO f in t Open in Who Shared Wrong byline? ▼

Farage's Spin Doctor Poses with Far Right Conspiracy Theorist – HOPE not hate

By David Lawrence

hopenothate.org.uk — Jukes, who began handling communications for the former UKIP leader in January, tweeted a photo of him standing side by side with Watson in front of the map backdrop the conspiracy theorist uses for his videos. Jukes has since "pinned" the tweet to the top of his profile. Watson creates content for his own YouTube channel and for the Prison Planet website, as well as for the fake news site InfoWars.com.

3 YEARS AGO f in t Open in Who Shared Wrong byline? ▼

Is UKIP embracing conspiratorial anti-Muslim prejudice on the doorstep? – HOPE not hate

By David Lawrence

hopenothate.org.uk — UKIP literature bearing the troubling marks of anti-Muslim "counter-jihad" (CJ) ideology has been pushed through doors in Medway, Kent, as the country was still raw and grieving in the wake of the Manchester attack.

3 YEARS AGO f in t Open in Who Shared Wrong byline? ▼

UKIP unveils anti-Muslim manifesto – HOPE not hate

By David Lawrence

hopenothate.org.uk — Despite all major parties postponing national campaigning until tomorrow, UKIP chose to launch its manifesto ahead of the minute's silence at 11am this morning. And while the country is still reeling from the abhorrent terrorist attack that occurred on Monday in Manchester, the manifesto launch marked a new attempt by UKIP to reposition itself as the party to take on Islamic terrorism.

3 YEARS AGO f in t Open in Who Shared Wrong byline? ▼

BANNED FROM A BROOKLYN BIGOTED BOOK STORE

By David Lawrence

canadafreepress.com — Later I was rejected by the management when they looked into my tweets and discovered that I was conservative. I am a little guy, no Yiannopoulos or Coulter. But now I was being rejected like them. It shows that liberal bias has infiltrated the fabric of our society. I was swept aside.

3 YEARS AGO f in t Open in Who Shared Wrong byline? ▼

Kick on for Literacy: A Fundraiser for the Indigenous Literacy Foundation

Convenient intermediary

Figure 6

SELLERS SLIP-UP REVEALS MANCHESTER MARKETEER'S FAR RIGHT SYMPATHIES

21/11/2018 - Duncan Cahill (<https://www.hopenothate.org.uk/authors/duncan-cahill/>)

Rachel Sellers.

Manchester marketer Rachel Sellers has been surreptitiously championing Stephen Lennon - or so she thought.

For someone who makes her living from social media advertising design, Manchester's Rachel Sellers displays remarkable ignorance of how Facebook works.

Sellers runs M33 Marketing Design from within a small complex which houses a range of independent and innocent businesses.

There's some nice looking outlets in there. It looks great for picking up soaps and scents.

This could be what masks the malodorous stench of far right propaganda which emanates from Sellers stall, unbeknownst to her fellow and rather more respectable vendors.

'Hit Job' [3]: The young, Manchester-based businesswoman.

Figure 7

Stellungnahme Kim
 Verfasst von: anonym. Verfasst am: Mi, 28.11.2012

Kim VeganWonderland Kalkowski Statement:
 Entgegen jeglicher Behauptungen bin ich weder rassistisch. Viele von euch kennen mich und wissen

Document scan taken from: 'Kein Weihnachtsfest für Kim "Vegan Wonderland" Kalkowski', Linksunten, 28th November 2012.

"Kim Vegan Wonderland Kalkowski Statement: Contrary to all claims, I am neither fascist nor nationalistic or racist. Nor is it true that my friend is Nazi. Just like many of you, I don't check every picture of people who link to me ...." The article, posted under the title 'No Christmas for Kim "Vegan Wonderland Kalkowski', is undoubtedly meant to be threatening. On the night following that Linksunten article an attempt was made to firebomb her 'Cakes N Treats' shop, in the centre of Dortmund, Germany.

Outlook
 THE NEWS SCROLL

25 AUGUST 2017 Last Updated at 2:17 PM | SOURCE: PTI

Germany bans far-left website accused of promoting violence
 Interior Minister Thomas de Maiziere said Friday the site "linksuntenIndymediaOrg" was responsible for mobilizing "violent actions and attacks on infrastructure" targets Among other things, he says the site provided information on how to build gasoline bombs and other incendiary devices with timers

'Hit Job' [4]: Hate script source from: banned, hard-left LinkSunten

Figure 8

The Sick Irony

Figure 9

Mainstream fake news. The video is actually much clearer than 'stills'. It clearly shows that: (1) the two cyclists are the aggressors; that the victim is using an extendible baton to try to drive them off; and that the victim is dressed in a shop assistant uniform – black apron, black t-shirt, and a cotton 'baker's cap'. At the end of the video it can be seen that the 2 cyclists force the man to retreat back into the shop.

That attack took place on the 11th September 2014, against staff at the 'Cake 'N' Treats' vegan coffee shop, in Camden, London. The principal target was Kim Kalkowski.

Figure 10

The 'stalking' of a young woman

END

[Nota: Original sources are listed as footnotes at the bottom of each page. Endnotes are not used. URL references are not hyper-linked in this report. Photos and image scans (including that of documents, et cetera) are included solely in the context of (and as appropriate to) the research content of this report, for illustrative and substantiation purposes only.]